

Courageously Advancing Medicine

The seven gold stripes represent the seven Loyola brothers, who distinguished themselves in battle in the 14th century. Today, the stripes represent Loyola's fight against disease.

A Higher Calling

The Latin motto, "Ad Majorem Dei Gloriam," means "For the Greater Glory of God." It is the motto of both the Jesuit order and Loyola University Chicago. For Loyola Medicine, it means focusing on not just the illness, but also the human spirit.

Protecting Health

The logo features the shape of a shield, the symbol of protection. The goal of Loyola Medicine is to protect and restore health.

Rededicating Ourselves

Loyola Medicine is the new name representing the unified family of all corporate entities — Loyola University Health System, Loyola University Chicago Stritch School of Medicine and Loyola University Physician Foundation.

Giving Back to the Community

The wolves feeding at an iron kettle symbolize the generosity of the family of St. Ignatius of Loyola. After the family had eaten and fed its soldiers, there was enough food left over to share with the animals. The same spirit of caring and giving can be found throughout Loyola Medicine today.

A Unifying Promise

The phrase "We also treat the human spirit®" is what connects us to our patients. This thought emphasizes the personal touch that is so much a part of Loyola's professional approach to care.

What's Behind a Logo?

There are many little parts of a logo, just as there are many little things we do at Loyola to ensure our patients receive the best care possible in a comfortable environment. Our new logo embraces our values and symbolizes the fact that everyone at Loyola, no matter what position they hold, contributes to patient care. At Loyola, everyone, from doctors to nurses to biomedical engineers to parking attendants, is focused on medicine. We continue to devote ourselves to the practice of medicine and its future through educating new providers and researching new treatments. Medicine is in everything we do. Now it's in our logo. At Loyola, we don't just treat the illness. We also treat the human spirit. If you would like more information about our services, please visit our Web site at www.LoyolaMedicine.org or call us at (888) LUHS-888.
